Unincorporated Areas May Have Darkened Streets

Some 60 percent of street lights serving neighborhoods in unincorporated sections of San Mateo County may be shut off in the coming months as a direct result of the property tax limitations imposed by Proposition 13.

Robert Frame, assistant county civil engineer who administers 11 special lighting districts in the county, said Thursday power to light standards is scheduled to be drastically curtailed beginning in December if the districts do not receive a share of the state surplus revenue.

Proposition 13, explained Frame, mandates a 57 percent reduction in the operating budgets of the special districts, which are funded by property taxes.

Lighting districts affected by the planned cutback include, Bel Aire, Belmont, Colma, El Granada, Emerald Lake, Enchanted Hills, La Honda, Montara, Pescadero and Ravenswood.

Frame said that before the Jarvis-Gann measure was enacted, $118,000 had been budgeted for the lighting districts. Now the budget has been cut to $50,740.

The engineer said he is working with officials of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. on a plan to reduce lighting in all districts between 57 and 60 percent.

PG&E provides power to the light standards and maintains them under contract with the special districts.

This county is scheduled to receive between $2 and $3 million in state surplus funds to bolster the budgets of districts. It is unclear at this point how this money will be divided.

At least one community served by a lighting district, East Palo Alto, is protesting the possible cutback.

The Municipal Council of that east of Bayshore Freeway community voted Wednesday night its formal opposition to the turning off of any street lights.

Councilmen said the lights are needed as a public safety measure.

May Be A Rec Center

By TERRY DAVENPORT

One Daly City neighborhood's loss may be another's gain.

Daly City City Council members voted unanimously Monday night to move the portable building that now houses a child care center at 350 Lowell St. to Hillside Park, where it would be used as a recreational center, if the local residents agree.

The council was forced to move the building by the Jefferson Elementary School District, which demanded that the building be off its premises by Aug. 1.

The building, paid for with Department of Housing and Urban Development funds given to Daly City, occupies a back corner of the Washington School site.

Employees of the Daly City Community for Children's Services, which operates the day care center, argued that eliminating the center would cause a hardship to parents who depend on it.

The acting director of the vendor program, which currently has nine children at the center, said more than 150 families are on a waiting list to place children there.

She said they are low-income families waiting to hear whether the state will continue to subsidize the center at the rate of $1.21 per child per hour. The DCCCS has applied for a renewal of state funding.

Mayor William Schumacher pointed out that only three of the 12 children at the center are not in the vendor program, which allows children to be placed in a variety of locations.

He asked why there continually are many vacancies at the center, although the rate charged is just $150 per month.

Nemer Gonzalez, president of the DCCCS board of directors, said uncertainty about the location of the center has discouraged parents from enrolling their children there.

Councilman James Tucker commented, "I get the sinking feeling you're losing this argument. Just explain to me why the city should pay $5,000 or $10,000 to relocate that building."

Gonzalez replied that there are many people willing to pay $150 per month

'Lie' by Weidner Claimed

By HEIDI VAN ZANT

The three Pacifica City Council members who voted to fire City Manager Donald G. Weidner last week explained in public for the first time Monday night why they did so.

Councilwoman Ellie McGuire said she initiated the action against the city manager when Weidner accused her of being "out to get him" and then later denied making the statement.

She said that after a recent council meeting she had asked Weidner a question and an argument resulted.

"He told me that he knew I was after him," Mrs. McGuire said. "I will omit the profanities that was involved."

The councilwoman said Weidner told her he had documents and tapes to prove "I was out to get him."

A personnel session was called for the next week, at which time, Mrs. McGuire said, "Mr. Weidner denied those statements."

Then another councilman asked for a second personnel session, because he was still disturbed by the incident, Mrs. McGuire said.

"I also felt I had been lied to," she said. "And that is the entire reason I voted to fire Mr. Weidner."

Her comments came after the City Council went into executive session for about half an hour during its regular meeting. Mrs. McGuire prefaced her remarks by saying many rumors have been circulating as to why the city manager was fired.

The council then voted to make public its reason for firing Weidner, with councilmen Stan Farber and Fred Howard dissenting.

After the vote, Farber left the meeting because, he said, "I don't care to be a party to this."

Howard said he voted to fire Weidner because he overheard the argument to which Mrs. McGuire referred and was upset by it.

"A person that would make those kind of statements would be difficult to work with," Howard said.

Howard said he also was upset that the truth assertedly was not being told when the council met behind closed doors.

"I was so upset that the man could not honestly say he had made the charges and they were false," Howard said.

When Weidner denied making the statements to Mrs. McGuire, Howard said he was visibly shaken by the denial.

"Thank God I held onto the chair," he added.

His regret, Howard said, is that the information about the firing had to come like it did.

If Pacifica residents want to recall him for voting to fire Weidner for the reason he did, "I welcome it," Howard said.

Councilman Mark Savage, who has insisted that Weidner was fired because of a personality clash with Mayor Nick Gust, reiterated that was the reason for the firing.

"It's my feeling Don Weidner never had a chance," Savage said, adding that Gust and the former city manager had "several hollering matches" when Weidner

CONGRATULATIONS

Newly installed judge Margaret Kemp receives a congratulatory kiss from state Supreme Court Chief Justice Rose Bird after ceremonies Friday at Daly City City Hall.

It Was a Historical Event For San Mateo County

Margaret Kemp, 33, was officially installed Friday afternoon as a judge in the Northern Judicial District Municipal Court, South San Francisco.

California Chief Justice Rose Elizabeth Bird was the installing officer at the ceremony in the Daly City Council Chambers.

Ms. Kemp, the first woman judge in the county's history, replaces retired judge Charles Becker. She is also the county's youngest judge.

The new judge actually assumed her duties July 1.

Ms. Kemp also was the first woman, as a deputy district attorney, to prosecute a first-degree murder trial in the county, the first woman deputy in charge of prosecutors and the first woman chief of the district attorney's consumer fraud division.

Zerne Haning, a San Mateo County attorney, was master of ceremonies at the swearing-in and Daly City Mayor William Schumacher presented a welcoming address.

Remarks were made by San Mateo County Bar Association president Vernon Vale and State Bar of California vice president Edward Lascher. Four judges also spoke: Walter P. Capaccioli, Thomas McGinn Smith, James O. Miller and F. J. deLarios.

Ms. Kemp, a Republican, will earn $45,235 a year as Municipal Court judge.

Justice Bird noted the swearing in came on the 100th anniversary of the first woman being admitted to practice law in California. She said she hoped it would not be another century before San Mateo County has another woman judge.

Post Office Workers to Demonstrate

Reasons for a possible nationwide strike by postal workers will be explained Wednesday by pickets today by pickets marching in front of Daly City's main post office and three substations in Daly City and Colma.

bers of the three postal unions in the United States, the Daly City postal workers are threatening to strike when their current contract expires at midnight July 20 — unless a new contract is agreed upon by then.

Walking informational piket lines from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday will be members of the two postal unions represented in Daly City: the American Postal Workers Union, which is composed mainly of postal clerks, and the National Association of Letter Carriers. They plan to hand out brochures.

Nationwide demonstrations are planned.

David Welsh, vice president of the local chapter of the carriers' union, explained that the postal workers want to let the public, management and Washington, D.C., officials and legislators know that they are determined to fight for a decent contract.

"The demands of postal workers coincide with the demands of the public for better service," Welsh said.

He said the Postal Service plans to eliminate about one-sixth of all postal workers within the next five years. To do so, he argued, would result in delays and poorer service.

Other points that postal workers hope to win in their contract are a full cost-of-living salary allowance, the end of mandatory overtime, elimination of part-time and temporary workers, expanded and enforced safety services, penalties against management for contract violations, a guaranteed right to strike and enforced affirmative action and anti-discrimination programs.

The demonstrations will be held in Daly City at the main station at 88th Street and Sullivan Avenue, at the Vista Grande station at 6025 Mission St. and at the Westlake Station at 199 Southgate Ave., and in Colma at 7373 Mission St.

Citizens Speak Up to D.C. Council

For the first time in many weeks, Proposition 13 was only a side note instead of the main topic of conversation at the Daly City City Council meeting Monday night.

The only direct reference to the property tax-cutting measure came when the council voted unanimously to allow the Recreation Commission to set fees for recreational programs run by the city.

Council members agreed at a previous meeting that the programs should be supported by user fees.

Members of the audience took advantage of a light agenda to ask lengthy questions of the council during the oral communications portion of the meeting.

George Kirchhubel asked why the council has rushed to approve a budget by July 1 when other city councils sometimes hold budget hearings through the summer. He wondered if the Daly City council's hurry had anything to do with Councilman Anthony Giammona's traditional long summer vacation in Hawaii.

Mayor William Schumacher replied that cities not adopting a budget by July 1 are operating in limbo and that their department heads don't know how much money they have to spend.

Kirchhubel also expressed some reservations about the council decision not to have the state audit its books.

Councilman James Tucker said Daly City saves 100 percent each year by not using the state's auditors.

Ernie Pezzola complained that the Youth Employment Programs doesn't have adequate space to operate in the Community Service Center.

Although the county-run program will cease operating at the center Aug. 15, City Manager David Rowe agreed to explore a more convenient housing arrangement.

Harold Calder asked about the city's position on a multi-purpose center. Schumacher said the council will review the idea later this month, when it discusses Housing and Community Development Act funding.

Julius Castelan demanded to know how much money Robert Bernicchi of South San Francisco is making as a result of a contract he has with the North San Mateo County Sanitation District.

Schumacher said Caste-

Sweeney Ridge Park Site

Action On Proposal Delayed

Action on a proposal to turn Sweeney Ridge into a national park was postponed Monday night even though the Pacifica City Council had been given petitions with 3,000 signatures supporting the park concept.

Councilmen said they wanted to wait two weeks to verify the signatures and to find out if more support would be forthcoming.

Mark Savage disagreed with the majority, saying "The crunch is now. Do you want a park up there or not?"

A group called Pacificans United to Save Our Hills (PUSH) circulated petitions last month at shopping centers and bus stops.

The petitions state that residents want Sweeney Ridge included in the national park system and were signed by registered voters and those not registered, including high school students.

The portion of Sweeney Ridge PUSH would like designated as a National Historic Site includes the east-west ridges between Vallemar and Fairway Park districts as well as the Rockaway Beach and Linda Mar areas.

Several persons addressed the council on the proposal, including a few who wanted the area developed.

Janice Dutton, a member of PUSH, said that preservation of open space is important and that in the wake of Proposition 13, new ways of obtaining revenue must be looked at.

"I believe that this development of Sweeney Ridge will prove more successful economically than housing at any density," she said.

West Aspen Co., a subsidiary of Texas International, has proposed a multi-million dollar housing development for the Sweeney Ridge area.

Because May or Nick Gust owns stock in Texas International, he did not participate in Monday night's discussion.

Ferd Simons, another member of PUSH who circulated petitions, said he was surprised that in this day of political apathy people showed "enthusiastic" support for the proposal.

Congress now is receptive to the idea of open spaces, he said.

"If this ever were to be possible in Pacifica, it is now," Simons added.

Resident Jerry McGinnis said it is the council's job to reflect the community's opinion. "We love the area. We'd like to keep it beautiful," he added.

Other residents noted that Sweeney Ridge is the discovery point of the San Francisco Bay, therefore having historical significance, and that the area is a "great asset" which must be preserved.

Not everyone thought the area should be preserved, though.

Rockaway Beach resident Barbara Pruett said the city can't take care of the parks and open spaces it has now.

"We have some of the biggest garbage cans that you have ever seen in your life," she said. "I think more open space is what we don't need."

Another resident, Hazel Campbell, said she was against the park concept because there is a housing shortage and because taxpayers can't afford to purchase the land.

"I for one can't afford to buy Sweeney Ridge," she said.

The council deadlocked on a motion to tell Congressman Leo Ryan (D-San Mateo) it supported the park designation for the area.

Councilman Stan Farber wanted to put the issue on the November ballot.

"I have no objections to following the wishes of the people," he said, but he

Motorcyclist Killed In Daly City Accident

A 19-year-old Daly City man was fatally injured late Friday morning when his motorcycle, coming down a steep hill at 55 to 60 miles per hour, slammed into a van truck making a left turn, Daly City police reported Monday

According to officers, James McGinnis of 42 Plymouth Circle, was riding his motorcycle eastbound down King Drive. They said as he reached Hyde Court, a van driven by E. Ruggeri of Sonoma was making a left turn. McGinnis' motorcycle went down and hit the wheel of the truck, throwing McGinnis against the gas tank of his own motorcycle, according to police.

The accident occurred at 11:15 a.m., and McGinnis died in the emergency room of Mary's Help Hospital about 20 minutes later, Deputy Coroner Leonard Lang reported.

McGinnis, an employee of Denny's restaurant in Daly City, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Y. McGinnis of Nampa, Idaho, Lang reported.

lan would have to get that information from the District.

Kirchhubel went to the microphone again to express his disdain for the procedure for appointing the Board of Directors of the Sanitation District.

He told the council, "You should do something to take us out of this mess. I think the people of Broadmoor, Garden Village and unincorporated Colma have gotten the shaft." Kirchhubel said it doesn't make sense to have county Supervisor James Fitzgerald represent the unincorporated areas on the board.

But City Attorney Albert Polonsky explained that the supervisors can appoint one of their members to represent the unincorporated areas. He advised Kirchhubel to appear before the supervisors when they select their representative or to contact a state lawmaker to rewrite the state law.

Other business, the council:

• Unanimously adopted a $78,670 budget for 1978-79 for the Neighborhood Family Project, a juvenile diversion program. The budget reflects a reduction from four to three youth workers, no employee salary increases and it does not require Daly City to front any money since a grant is forthcoming.

• Declared $8,054.89 of its accounts receivable as uncollectible so that the city can write them off. Daly City will continue to seek payment, turning some of the unpaid bills over to a collection agency and small claims court.

• Heard Rowe reports that two large temporary lots will be open by the end of the week to help alleviate parking problems near Mary's Help Hospital. Another smaller lot is due to be completed soon.

• Sold three buildings to the highest bidders. The structures are located at 217 and 273 Templeton Ave. and at 268 Winchester St.

• Watched the mayor give Terry Lee Cottrill of Daly City Troop 8 a Certificate of Commendation for attaining the rank of Eagle Scout. He is the first Boy Scout in that troop to win the award.

Schumacher said, "Even though you live in South San Francisco, we want to adopt you."

tor child care. He noted that DCCCS was the first non-profit child care center in Daly City "and you, as councilmen, approved it."

"You have had more than your share of growing pains," remarked Schumacher.

Gonzalez said his policy is to look forward, not at the past.

Determining that the Hillside Homeowners Association might want the building for recreational use in Hillside Park, the council voted 4-0 to relocate it there — on the condition that the residential group approves the idea.

A woman from the Serramonte Nursery School said that facility has five vacancies for children at $150 per month. She added that Bayshore Child Care Center expects to have openings as soon as its playground is completed.

Gonzalez told the council "If you move that building right now and don't give notice to the parents, you are going to have a serious problem on your hands."

The city will notify all parties involved about the pending move of the portable building.

wanted more information on how the project would be financed and what provisions would be made for roads in the areas.

Councilwoman Ellie McQuire said she needed more time to review the petitions and examine the proposal "to be very sure we are doing what the majority of people want us to do."

She does support the proposal, she said, because "If the majority of the people want it, I have no problem with it."

The park concept also received the support of Councilman Fred Howard, who said "I believe the voters of this town want to see a national park."

The only councilman who did not want to delay action for two weeks was Savage, who said immediate action should be taken.

A ballot measure is not needed, Savage said, because "We know what the people want." One unidentified lady shouted back: "No you don't."

would not do favors the mayor requested.

Gust and Savage then argued with each other over statements that Savage was attempting to make about the personal life of one council member.

After the meeting, Gust said Savage is upset by the recent turn of events because "his balloon has burst."

He said Savage was in the comfortable position previously working with a city manager and police chief he liked and that until recently the majority of the City Council took positions similar to Savage's

However, Gust said, the city manager has been fired, the police chief has taken another job and two City Council members were upset in elections last March.

Gust did not deny that he has been unhappy with Weidner's performance for several years.

"We've been a do-nothing city for two years," Gust said, charging that Pacifica has been poorly managed and it was time for a change.

Earlier in the meeting Gust denied that the city manager was fired because he wanted to hire a new chief from within the Police Department.

"I'm sorry we're making this an issue," Gust said. "The hiring of the chief of police was not the issue."

Savage alleged that Weidner was fired after he said a police chief would not be hired from outside the department.

He said he still personally thinks that is one of the reasons why Weidner was fired.

Weidner was unavailable for comment today. When asked last week to comment on his firing, he said there were "clear philosophical differences" between him and the council.

Albert St. Cyr, the director of community development and services, was named acting city manager last week.

City Attorneys Expect Proposition 13 to Be Constitutional

By BILL HURSCHMANN

Proposition 13 eventually will be declared constitutional by the courts, three Peninsula city attorneys agreed Thursday night.

Millbrae City Attorney Frank Gillio, San Mateo City Attorney Maurice Hamilton and Daly City City Attorney Al Polonsky agreed that Proposition 13 will remain on the books, but all said they hope some of its vague areas will be cleared up by the courts.

The occasion which brought the three attorneys together was a meeting of the North San Mateo Council of Cities, with representatives from all of San Mateo County's cities north of San Mateo attending — except for South San Francisco, where officials were discussing the city's budget.

Polonsky lambasted the state's two bills designed to allocate the state surplus to local agencies.

"This (Senate Bill 154 and Senate Bill 2212) is a fraud the governor and the state Legislature has perpetrated on us," he said. "Both seemingly give us relief, but it's a fraud. What they give us, they take back."

Senate Bill 154, the basic allocation bill, "is only good for one year," Polansky said. "It is not a blanket for the overall situation facing us.

"What's going to happen when we are faced with no surplus?" he questioned. "What will the Legislature give us after, based on SB 154?"

Polansky added that he believes the courts will uphold the constitutionality of Proposition 13. Hamilton, however, disagreed in part.

"The California Supreme Court has a tough decision before them (oral arguments on the constitutionality of Proposition 13 are expected Aug. 11)," Hamilton said.

"I wish they had the guts . . . to make an honest decision . . . but I don't believe they have," Hamilton added. "I think they (the court) will support it . . . with some changes."

Hamilton said he believes provisions limiting contracts existing between the cities and its employees "will be declared invalid."

Also, Hamilton said, "The provision of no new taxes . . . is unconstitutional. If you prohibit the power to tax, you're prohibiting government. One may not prohibit a government agency from the power to tax. That will be held unconstitutional."

Calling the controversial proposition "poorly written," the San Mateo city attorney added: "There's plenty of substance to throw this thing out, but I don't think they (the court) have the guts."

Millbrae City Attorney Gillio termed "the outlook dim." He said he would not expect a decision from the court until after the November election, citing politics as the reason.

"And I suspect the court will uphold Proposition 13." He said, however, that he hopes the Supreme Court will "straighten out some of the problems."

Three major problems, he said, are:

- For purposes of distributing property tax revenues and the state surplus, what actually is a district? Do districts include cities? Proposition 13 indicates money disbursements will be made to "districts."
- Since Proposition 13 authorizes no new taxes, is there a difference between a tax and a users' fee?
- To approve a new tax, Proposition 13 indicates it must have two-thirds approval of all the voters. Does this mean two-thirds of everybody registered, or two-thirds of those going to the polls for that particular election?

"It's such a vague proposition,' Gillio said. "It sounds like Jarvis and Gann went into the backroom of a bar and worked it out. It's the worst written piece of legislation I've ever seen."

Gillio pointed out that of all the initiatives passed in the State of California since 1950, only one still remains on the books.

He also told the elected officials some good news. Originally, the state was to disburse its surplus in three chunks — 10 percent in August, 45 percent in September and 45 percent in May. That, however, has been changed to three one-third allocations — immediately, in September and in May.

He also pointed out that any changes made in the general fund reserve balance after June 6 will not affect the city's balance. Several jurisdictions with large general fund reserves depleted them prior to July 1 (when Proposition 13 became law) so they would be entitled to a large apportionment of the state surplus.

One aspect of Senate Bill 2212, Gillio added, could declare null and void all existing contracts between cities and their employee groups.

All attorneys agreed that Proposition 13 has created a fiscal mess in the state, that it is vague and that much of its interpretation will be decided later by the courts.

Hospital Seeks Patients That Had Radiation

Peninsula Hospital in Burlingame is looking for people who had radiation treatments to their upper bodies, especially their necks and faces, several decades ago.

Recent studies have shown that some of those former patients, many of them from the East and Midwest, have since developed cancer of the thyroid gland.

Dr. William Johnson, director of radiation therapy at Peninsula, says thousands of babies were given radiation treatments between the 1920s and 1950s to combat what seemed to be enlarged thymus glands and breathing problems.

However, he says, over the years some of those people developed cancer. Now, hospitals all across the country are searching for these former patients to check for possible cancer.

Johnson says the time lag between the radiation treatment and the onset of an abnormality showing up in a gland in the upper body could be anywhere between 10 and 40 years.

In cooperation with the National Cancer Institute, Peninsula is attempting to alert both its own ex-patients and persons who have had radiation therapy somewhere else and now live here.

Johnson says 1 to 7 percent of the former patients who have returned for an examination have suffered from cancer. He says few of these people have died.

He emphasizes that any abnormality which is found now is usually benign. And, he adds, if it is cancerous, it usually can be treated relatively easily.

"Most of these malignancies are highly curable," says Johnson. "It might not affect their lives at all."

He says people who have had these treatments — for the thymus problem, adolescent acne and any other radiation therapy for the upper body — can contact their physicians.

"Let the physician know about the previous treatment and then have a complete physical examination," he says.

Peninsula will soon mail out letters about this situation to all of its 25 former patients.

Laguna Salada Board Plans Budget Session

Trustees of the Laguna Salada Union School District agreed Thursday to have an in-depth discussion of the budget July 20.

Superintendent James Brien said that because of Proposition 13, the district will lose about $800,000 in the 1978 fiscal year.

Brien said a $500,000 reserve in the budget could be used to make up the lost income and that another $300,000 to $500,000 still will have to be taken out of the budget.

When trustees met Thursday they also learned that a policy on student discipline will be presented to them at the July 20 meeting.

Board members heard some good news, Brien said, when they were given a report on state reading scores for second and third graders.

From 1971 to 1977, scores at the second-grade level increased by 20 percent and scores at the third-grade level went up 19 percent.

Other new officers of the Daly City-Colma club are: Tom Dickerman, vice president (membership); Emma Stabile and Richard Silver, co-vice presidents (administration); Peter Forrester, treasurer; and Ron Marren, secretary.

SSF Trims 'Fat' From Budget

South San Francisco's City Council agreed Thursday night to cut $435,000 of so-called "fat" from the budget while holding off action on drastically reducing paramedic and library services.

The task of deciding how at least $600,000 should be cut from the budget was begun Wednesday when the council reviewed a list of proposed cuts drawn up by City Manager Walter Birkelo.

He said the budget must be chopped from the proposed pre-Proposition 13 figure of $10.3 million to $9.7 million.

The city will receive about $720,000 from the state as its share of the state surplus, he said, adding property tax revenue will drop from $3.2 million last fiscal year to about $1.6 million in fiscal 1978.

To balance the budget, council members agreed that such services as free sidewalk repair, frequent street sweeping and city-initiated holiday decoration of the downtown area should be eliminated.

At the same time, the council said "no" to laying off two firefighters, eliminating six school crossing guard positions and moving the Senior City from Grand Avenue to a city-owned facility.

Of concern to the council were proposals to replace the local paramedic service with county-operated Medevac and to reduce library hours and services.

By eliminating the paramedic program, which is run by the South San Francisco Fire Department, the city could save $95,000, Birkelo said.

Councilwoman Roberta Teglia said Wednesday that the county had considered canceling the Medevac program and that if the local paramedic service were eliminated, "we stand to lose that program entirely."

She proposed that the suggested cut be placed on the November ballot for voter consideration.

Councilman Ron Acosta said voters would be confused to see the paramedic funding request on the ballot with another measure to charge a $50 service fee on each parcel of land in South San Francisco.

This measure will require a two-thirds voter approval. The tax would be used to maintain current city services, generating between $750,000 and $1 million.

Because Mrs. Teglia said she does not know "what the mood of the electorate is," she said she would rather have two proposals on the ballot so that if the $50 tax fails, support for the paramedic program still could be shown.

Councilman Terry Mirri said that rather than placing specific programs on the ballot, the council should decide how the user's tax would be spent.

"The public is going to be somewhat skeptical," he said, if additions to the ballot are made. He said voters would have more trust in the council if it allocated the special tax revenue.

The council asked that it be given a report on the local paramedic program and Medevac at its next meeting, July 19. Council members also postponed action on proposals to reduce library services.

One suggestion was to reduce hours at the Grand Avenue Library by eliminating morning, Friday evening and all-day Saturday hours.

Grand Avenue Library hours would be cut on Sundays, and on other days the library would not open until noon.

Hours for part-time employees would be reduced and funds for materials acquisition would be cut under the proposed plan to reduce the library budget by 15 percent.

"We do want to keep the libraries open for the people," library director Robert Alvarez said, adding he wanted the libraries open on weekends when usage is heavy.

Councilwoman Teglia asked several specific questions about the library, leading up to request that consideration be given to reorganizing the library system.

"I would really like to see us getting the maximum service out of the department," she said, as she expressed concern that hours for part-time employees were being cut heavily.

"I'm not sure that we need a director to do what you do," Mrs. Teglia said to Alvarez. "Im not sure we need the top man."

If Alvarez thought it would be in the best interest of the library department, he said, he would offer to retire at that moment.

"I'm all ears," he said, adding he had a different view of the need for his job but that he would consider all suggestions.

The library director said he does not have an assistant nor a secretary while systems of comparable size have larger administrative staffs.

"I respect your review," Alvarez said of the thorough going-over Mrs. Teglia gave the proposed cuts. "Prove it on paper. That's all I want."

County Budget Looks Familiar

Those Threats of Doom Wilt in the Sunlight

By RICK SULLIVAN

Predictions that enactment of the now notorious Proposition 13 would trigger governmental chaos in forcing widespread layoffs and a crippling reduction in county programs and services have failed to materialize.

With the expected support of state surplus revenue and the diligent endorsement of administrative efficiency measures, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors has tentatively adopted a Jarvis-Gann budget not drastically different from past budgets.

Cutbacks, including employee layoffs, were indeed made by the supervisors during 11 head-spinning special budget study meetings, but it is unlikely many county residents will feel the impact of the reductions — at least this year.

East Palo Alto may be an exception. Residents of that east of Bayshore Freeway community sustained concentrated reductions in probation programs, local government administration and library services.

Using some $37 million in projected property tax revenue allowed under the provisions of Jarvis and some $23 million in state rescue money, the supervisors have assured that there will be no appreciable change in law enforcement services offered by the sheriff and the district attorney.

They also project that medical and public health services will continue as usual and that most county parks and library branches will remain open.

A week prior to the June primary election, County Manager David Nichols warned that voter approval of the Jarvis-Gann initiative could force the following cutbacks, should state surplus money not be forthcoming:

- All 18 county park units would be closed.
- Paramedic and ambulance services offered by the private firm Medevac would be discontinued.
- The Fair Oaks Family Health Clinic in Redwood City would be closed.
- The Human Relations and Economic Opportunities Commissions would be eliminated.
- Camp Glenwood, Ellsworth House and Mustard Seed, all jail diversion programs, woulc be shut down.
- All federal revenue-sharing funds to community-based organizations serving the poor and minorities would be discontinued.
- Funding for the North County Pre-Arraignment and Detention Center in Daly City would be cut off.
- Subsidies to the Peninsula Humane Society, chambers of commerce, the county development association and the convention bureau would be terminated.
- Some 1,400 county employees would be laid off.

Just hours after state voters had authorized the tax-cutting constitutional amendment, the supervisors began planning a new fiscal year budget using only property tax funds it could legally generate under the Jarvis measure — $37 million.

Last year the county raised some $69 million in property taxes.

In nine full days, the supervisors agreed to fund all major county parks at least through the summer months; approved a new contract with Medevac that assured no reduction in ambulance services; and appropriated $160,000 in revenue-sharing funds to community-based groups.

They also contracted with the Drew Medical Center in East Palo Alto to operate the Fair Oaks clinic. They closed the Human Relations division, but agreed to pay for two human relations specialists to work in the county manager's office; subsidized the humane society with funds generated from dog license fees; appropriated $50,000 to the Economic Opportunity Commission; and sent layoff notices to 797 county employees.

Supervisors did close the jail diversion programs, cut funding for the North County Pre-Arraignment and Detention facility and chopped deep into such county departments as planning, probation and general services.

A special 10-cent tax levy to raise funds for the acquisition of parks and open space also was temporarily suspended for one year, as predicted.

Then, almost two weeks ago, county officials were advised that they would receive about $23 million in state surplus funds to replace the local revenue lost under Prop. 13.

Yet another multi-day special budget session was scheduled to pump the state appropriation into this fiscal year's budget. The following actions were taken:

- All major county parks will remain open for the full year.

Small park units such as Sweeney and Milagra ridges will be officially closed, but there will be no park personnel to enforce the closure.

- Funding was renewed for the North County detention center.
- Revenue sharing funds to community-based organizations will be increased by about $140,000.
- The Economic Opportunity Commission will have an additional $15,000 to fund its summer youth program.
- The humane society subsidy will be increased by $140,000.
- All county library branches will be funded for an average of about 30 hours per week, except Pescadero, El Granada and Sanchez in Pacifica, which were closed.
- The budgets of most all county departments — including the county manager's office, the board of supervisors, planning, probation, general services, public health and medical services — will be financially strengthened.
- Layoff notices which had been sent to 567 of the 797 employees were rescinded.

Personnel Manager William May said Wednesday that the county has officially terminated 220 workers. He said another 56 employees could be dismissed in the next few weeks.

Some Signs of Mid-Life Crisis

So you're about to turn 40 — or maybe you already have. Well, join the club. You're part of a growing number of guys who are oozing into the quicksand of male mid-life crisis.

Everybody is talking about this special condition. It has become the latest trendy rage among the smart set. You can read about male mid-life crisis in books, magazines and newspapers. You can listen to experts on the subject on radio and the tube.

Male mid-life crisis is being dissected and discussed at workshops, seminars, encounter sessions and intimate soirees all over California. As a matter of fact, if you find yourself in this touchy category, you're a hot property for analysis.

What's so exciting about male mid-life crisis anyway?

It's really nothing new. Men have been going through this sort of thing for generations. Self-doubt and introspection are all part of the big ballgame of aging with grace.

What makes today's situation different is that all of us have more time to think about it. And one of the problems for those who find themselves entering these trecherous psychic waters is that you are never quite sure when your own mid-life is in crisis.

I may be able to help in this regard. After years of observing friends and relatives passing through the magic 40 I think I can offer some suggestions on how to recognize your dilemma.

Here are some guidelines for discerning your predicament. You are edging into a mid-life crisis when:

- You find yourself dozing through the swimsuit segments of "Charlie's Angels."
- You still think Fabian is making hit records.
- You buy a waterbed and it gives you motion sickness.
- You broach the idea of having a vasectomy to your wife and she says "Why bother?"
- You show your ID to the waitress at Tingles and she laughs.
- Your notion of a seven-course meal is a bag of potato chips and a six-pack.
- Your daughter says she wants to see the Eagles and you tell her they're an endangered species.
- Your spare tire starts to look like a radial.
- You dread back-to-school night because kids refer to you as a "geezer."
- You ask for the count at a baseball game and your wife recites your latest cholesterol figures.
- You start worrying that you AREN'T Type A.
- Your physician tells you that a yearly physical may not be enough.
- There's more hair on your comb in the morning than there is on your head and that little dab just won't do you any more.
- Your wife takes out a three-year subscription to Playgirl and then says she wants to charge it off as a medical expense.
- You shop for a pair of French jeans and get referred to a war surplus store down the street.
- You decide to don some snappy gold necklaces and your secretary asks if you are going to include a medical alert tag with the jewelry.
- Your eight-year-old son's fastball is too hot for you to handle.
- Senior citizens with canes pass you while you're jogging in the street.
- Your get-up-go has got-up-and-left.

This is merely a handful of tips for the concerned Peninsulan who fears he is heading for a kind of menopausal Armageddon. It is not a complete list by any means. But it will have to do for openers.

Still, it might be best to remember what my own dear wife said last month as I moaned about approaching the dreaded 40.

According to her, "It's a lot easier to turn 40 than never to turn 40 at all." A good point. I may reconsider that waterbed after all.

Samuel Chandler

I was traveling along Highway 99 through the heart of California and was impressed deeply by the spectacle of dairy farms, orchards and vineyards that stretch between the cities of the Golden State. In the evening I opened a book I had brought from Daly City's California History Library and found there a prophecy that was formulated by an artist of yore and pronounced in 1862 by Thomas Starr King.

As recorded in the "California Scrapbook" by Oscar T. Shuck (N.H. Bancroft, 1869) the vision employed language so poetical it cried for repunctuation.

"One of our citizens has recently indulged in an artist's dream of what the State of California will look like a hundred years hence.

"He sees:
Long ribbons of fields stretching to Fort Tejon,
Each field a different color —
Green grapes,
Brown furrows,
Emerald vines,
Fringing hedges;
Grains growing;
Cream colored grains,
Grains aureate and russett . . .' "

AS THE vision continued the seer painted the scenes he saw in words of beauty.

"I saw:
Houses dotted along like violets in flower beds;
Houses dotted along like dewdrops in clover fields;
Houses reaching forth like mosses in the crystal brook;
Houses clumped;
Houses grouped;
Hamlets modest;
Hamlets blooming and luxuriant like gorgeous creepers;
Villages with spires;
Towns with burnished domes goldened by the sun and silvered by the moon;
Cities with minarets;
Cities with columns;
Cities with tall needlelike buildings pouring up to God the frankincense of labor;
Terraced foothills laughing with general villas;
Sloping forelands alive with herds;
Oval knolls crowned with festoons of fruit blossoms
Breathing sweet perfume to the sky;
Mountain gorges rolling out metals;
Mountain peaks staring at opposite peaks from bold-faced palaces;
Mountain rivulets murmuring to trellised rose-hidden cottages;
Mountain vales creeping away to love God in dreamy repose."

AFTER repeating the above, Rev. Starr King wrote "This gorgeous rhetoric . . . It should make hearts swell with sacred pride to know that this generation can contribute to such a future and insure to our posterity a land in which the snow of the Sierra and of Shasta shall emboss and crown with magnificence."

I laid the book aside and wondered. Do the rushing, spinning, self-possessed Californians of 1978 ever stop to think of what will be the quality of life in their state 100 years hence? Do their hearts swell with sacred pride to know that they live in a commonwealth that was envisioned by pioneers of the stamp of Thomas Starr King? Do they labor with anything in mind other than their immediate comfort?

Would Rev. Starr King — should he return from his grave to California in 1978 — cry as he did in 1862, "a great miracle has been wrought, and in a double way of beauty and bounty"?

IS IT not true in 1978, as it was in 1862, that our hearts should swell to contemplate the glorious future that we can make for our posterity in California? But do they?

Editorial

Obsolete Bureaus

The post-election emphasis in Sacramento on economy and cutting out needless government bureaucracy seems to be producing some unexpected salutary effects. At the instigation of Speaker Leo McCarthy, the Assembly passed 78-0 the other day a bill to eliminate 34 obscure state boards, bureaus and commissions — many of which most of us probably did not know existed.

This legislation (AB 3145) would abolish 10 of these redundant or outmoded government agencies outright, and give 24 others an opportunity to prove their worth. Declared obsolete and slated for elimination after all these years are the Commission to Fix the Rate of Interest Paid on Registered Warrants, State Resources Conservation Commission, State Council of Educational Planning and Coordination, California Design Awards Commission, Advisory Commission on Drug Manufacturing, Colorado River Toll Bridge Compact, Colorado Toll Bridge Authority, Interdepartmental Coordinating Commission on Alcoholism, Board of Library Examiners and the Scenic Highway Advisory Commission.

The function of many of these bureaus has been taken over by other agencies as a result of legislation. It seems that when new agencies were created, however, the lawmakers just did not get around to phasing out completely the earlier bureaucracy.

Some of the other agencies affected by AB 3145 would be required to prove their value to the Legislature no later than two years prior to a specific repeal date. Otherwise, they too would cease to exist and the remaining bureaucrats would go off the public payroll.

If one result of last month's election is to move legislators, however belatedly, to eliminate duplication and overlapping in the state bureaucracy, this is a development which all beleaguered taxpayers could applaud.

Prop. 13 Fallout Clouds Picture for Youth

Roundabout

(This column is by Brian Blum, writer of the weekly Mustang column until his recent graduation from Capuchino High School. His subjects are of general interest to young people. Comments and replies to his observations may be addressed to this newspaper.)

By BRIAN BLUM

California politics certainly have become feisty these days. Jarvis and Gann, for example, are two little words that have sparked more headlines, letters to the editor and emotionalism than anything else in recent memory. For the young person, though, it seems that any way you look at Proposition 13, you lose.

Both high school and community college summer school has been canceled. Last year the College of San Mateo's three campuses enrolled 13,000 people; now all those students, plus the high schoolers, are out on their own this summer. And who knows what kind of shape the schools will be in come autumn?

HIGH SCHOOL swimming pools are closed because of exorbitant fees. Public libraries are operating at reduced schedules. Some recreation programs have been canceled, bus fares are rising — maybe not in this county, but elsewhere — and a lot of what was labeled "scare tactics" has come true.

What's really ironic is that the young people, who were against the initiative, have been hit the hardest. Few teenagers own their own homes, so they could hardly count on reaping any tax savings. Most live with their parents or in apartments, but they will pay any other increased taxes or higher fees for services.

But we really showed the guys in Sacramento who's boss, right? Sure, we did. They are. When the legislature can say to the school districts "If you hold summer school, then we won't give you any of the state surplus," then all local control has been lost.

AND HAVE you seen any administrators cut! Of course not. Only the little guys, the productive workers, get chopped. So, the Millbrae library's staff is down to nine from a previous 20. But then, did you really expect the guy with firing power to fire himself?

What's really scary is how so many of the voters simply chose to ignore the consequences and vote emotionally for what they thought would be their own personal gain. Arguments on both sides rarely were rational, and dinner table discussions everywhere often erupted into yelling sessions.

What also worries me is how libraries and schools and museums can be considered "non-essential services." In this day of plummeting academics, it seems imbecilic to reduce educational services.

IF THIS voting trend continues, then the Briggs Initiative also has a good chance of passing in November, and that's sick. Briggs' amendment is the one which allows a school district to fire a homosexual teacher, a teacher they think is gay, or anyone even assisting a gay teacher.

It's discrimination, it's prejudice, and it stinks of a witch-hunt very close to the McCarthyism of the 1950s. When are people going to stop searching for scapegoats? We've had blacks, Nazis, Communists, Jews, and even women; now the primary target is homosexuals. When are we going to realize that people are people regardless of race, sex or sexual preference? (So ends my sermon for this week.)

But back to Proposition 13. There are ways to recoupe some of the money lost because of lower property taxes. I favor ideas such as one being kicked around in San Bruno creating a $50 per household tax, and a proposal for libraries coming out of Southern California.

THAT PROPOSAL would set up a co-operative library system where patrons would pay a fee to "join" the library and receive a library card. People not wanting to check out books could still browse for free. What we need now is a little imaginative thinking and some open minds.

An issue related to Proposition 13 that isn't speculation is that a lot of kids knocked out of the schools have taken to looking for jobs. Unfortunately, at this time of year, finding a summer job is next to impossible.

The good jobs are snapped up in May, which leaves only the dregs — fast food outlets and warehouses — and even those are hard to come by without experience. That's the old vicious circle of experience: You can't get a job without it, and you can't get it without a job. It all leads up to a lot of frustration.

WHY ARE more and more students working nowadays? Has life grown that much more expensive? Not really. What has grown is our desire to do and own everything we want. This generation's high schoolers haven't known poverty or been through a depression.

And the only shortage we've experienced was the short-lived gasoline crisis hoax. Regardless of high prices and inflation, we are still a very affluent society, and we get what we want, from clothes to cars to sex and drugs and rock and roll.

But for the kids who can't find a summer job, these three months of vacation pose a long, boring stretch rather than a welcome respite from studying. And it's generally the bored youths who hang out in the streets and cause trouble.

I REMEMBER one woman from East Palo Alto who got very emotional over that subject at a recent Jarvis-Gann library budget meeting. Pleading to keep her community's library open, she argued that the scools and recreation programs had been shut down, and now the kids had nothing to do but fight and shoot each other.

She then rattled off a list of people up and down the Peninsula who had killed themselves because they had lost their jobs, and cried out, "I'm a very sick woman. I'm not going to kill myself, but Jarvis-Gann's gonna kill me!"

That might be a little extreme, but like I said, California politics have become interesting lately.

—Help Wanted—

The following agencies have requested volunteer assistance from the Volunteer Bureau/Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County, with offices in Burlingame, Daly City and Redwood City. The local number for area residents is 992-0957, an answering service. Interested residents also may contact the main office in Burlingame at 342-0801, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Frida.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD — An evening training session is planned for interested volunteers beginning July 17. Volunteers are needed in the Pacifica and San Mateo clinics and an interview is required prior to the training which is at the San Mateo clinic.

DAY CAMP FOR THE HANDICAPPED — Many volunteers are needed for the annual outdoor recreation program for handicapped children and young adults at Coyote Point Park in August. The camp operates from 9:45 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. Monday through Friday. Volunteers are the most essential part of the camp. Volunteers need to be at least 15 years of age.

SAN BRUNO CONVALESCENT HOSPITAL — A volunteer skilled as a projectionist is needed to show films on a weekly basis.

COASTSIDERS SENIOR CITIZEN CENTER — An instructor is needed for an arts and crafts class and another is needed to lead an exercise class at the center. This will involve only an hour per week and a six-week commitment would be fine. This will be done weekdays in the morning in Half Moon Bay.

YWCA — Adult volunteers with experience with chidren are needed for a summer day camp program Thursdays from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. at the Brisbane Community Center for six weeks. Anyone with arts and crafts skills would be especially helpful.

For further information about these and other volunteer opportunities for adults and our summer youth program contact the Volunteer Bureau at the numbers listed or drop by the main office in Burlingame, 119 Primrose Road, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. A project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County, the Bureau shares in the United Way of the Bay Area and is funded, in part, by the County of San Mateo.

Steiny Wins D.C. Project

The state Department of Transportation last week opened bids on 14 highway construction projects in Northern California.

Among them was a $95,297 low bid from Steiny and Co., Inc., of Vallejo to install traffic signals and left-turn lanes at the intersection of Serramonte and Junipero Serra boulevards and the north-bound on-ramps of Junipero Serra Freeway. Work is expected to start within 30 to 45 days.

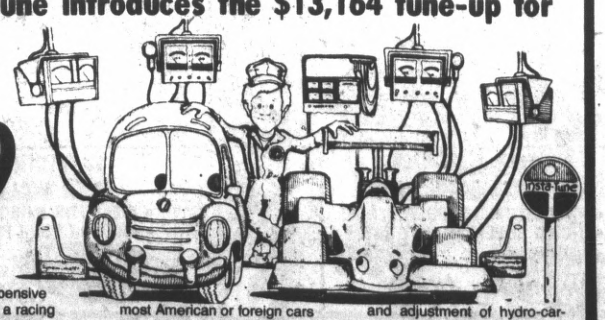
Insta-Tune introduces the $13,164 tune-up for



$39 (or less)

It takes a lot of expensive equipment to tune a racing engine. About $13,164 worth, to be exact. Just imagine what that kind of equipment could do for a passenger car! One way to find out is to take your car to a nearby INSTA-TUNE center. At INSTA-TUNE, the nation's largest tune-up chain of its kind, every car is dynamometer tuned under actual driving conditions. So you get peak performance and maximum horsepower at all driving speeds. Sophisticated electronic equipment is used to analyze ignition, exhaust and carburetion so your car will deliver the best possible gas mileage. In fact your gas savings alone could more than cover the cost of an INSTA-TUNE tune-up. And, by the way, your INSTA-TUNE center will do a complete tune-up on most American or foreign cars in about 30 minutes, while you wait.

Here's what you get:
- New plugs, points and condenser
- New distributor cap, rotor and coil, if needed
- Replace faulty ignition wires and/or terminals
- Adjust points and timing
- Adjustment and chemical cleaning of carburetor
- Service PCV
- Dynamometer engine tune-up
- Infra-red performance analysis and adjustment of hydro-carbon and carbon-monoxide exhaust emissions
- Service or replace air filter

Plus you get a 6 month/6,000 mile warranty covering all installed tune-up parts and labor, good at any INSTA-TUNE center nationwide.

At $39 for 8 cylinder cars, $37 for 6 cylinder and $35 for 4 cylinder cars, at participating dealers, it just may be the biggest bargain in automotive history.

THE DIET CORNER

By ELISE GENDAR

Not to decide is to decide. Pop poster wisdom is scattered across the walls of our offices, houses, and schools these days. It comes in yellow, purple, blue, orange — a whole spectrum. People glance, say "Hmmmmmmmm" and go their merry ways. I saw that poster and immediatelyi thought "Diet!" because that's the way my mind works.

Now I don't want you to have the idea that all diet and no relaxation have made Jill a dull girl. It's simply that once your overweight has gone, your diet is going to remain with you, at least in moderate form, for the rest of your life if you want to remain thin. Subconsciously, I am always diet-oriented.

YOU HAVE two decisions to make about your weight. Not to diet is one, and believe me, many people opt for the negative decision. The second is whether you intend to remain forever thin. That comes at the end of a successful reduction program.

I think that this is the harder one to make because it is a sort of eternal marriage to a program of eating. Like any marriage, there will be days when the restraint will chafe. Like any marriage, working at the melding of personality and program becomes more certain as time goes by.

Good maintenance starts with good dieting. You must learn mature eating habits. No more gulp and gallop attacks on the table. Small bites, thoughtful chews, and relaxing intervals between helpings spread a smaller amount of food over a mealtime. Variety, rather than childish reliance on the same secure menus, helps.

FORESIGHT rather than hindsight is an absolute necessity so your shopping never includes a single item tht will prove too seductive to overcome. No one in your family benefits from junk snacks, anyway.

Banishing the old butter topping for every vegetable in favor of adventuring with spices and herbs becomes the set-rule of the diet house. So does substituting high-calorie ingredients for low-calorie ones in all situations. Oh, it can be dome. Witness this:

CREAMED TURKEY DINNER

1 teaspoon dressing mix
6 oz. cooked sliced white meat turkey
1 package cauliflower, well-cooked and well-drained
1 can mushrooms, drained, reserve liquid
1 can asparagus, drained

Place the turkey on a plate. Blend the drained cauliflower and liquid from the mushrooms with dressing mix until smooth. Heat in saucepan, adding mushrooms and asparagus. When thoroughly hot, pour over sliced turkey and serve.

DO I ever want a divorce from my diet? Sometimes when I see a person in a dining room devouring a hot fudge sundae as I bite into a succulent, chilled melon, I have my moments. Then I search around the room for a mirror, and what I see reassures me that it is all worthwhile.

How can you measure the thrill of one sundae against the delight of always knowing the dress or pants you wore yesterday, last week, last month, and yes, even last year, still will fit today?

Now that you've become thin are you having a maintenance problem? May I help? Write to me at The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval St., San Francisco 94116.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Bar cookies are always a favorite with both the baker and the munchers of the baker's product. I think they are such a favorite because they are so easy to make, and let's face it, we are frequently in a hurry and being able to spread the dough in a pan, bake and then simply cut into squares makes for a fast batch of cookies.

Thinking along these lazy lines, you will find these bar cookies just to your taste. We surely found them to ours.

GLAZED COFFEE SQUARES

3 tablespoons instant coffee
1 tablespoon water
½ teaspoon coconut extract
1 cup butter softened
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups unsifted flour

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In small measuring cup, combine three tablespoons instant coffee, one tablespoon water and one-half teaspoon coconut extract; set aside. In large bowl, beat the one cup softened butter until creamy. Add the one cup sugar, one teaspoon salt and coffee mixture; beat until creamy. Add the two cups unsifted flour; mix well. Press into ungreased 15-by 10-inch baking pan. Bake at 375-degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

Cool completely. Spread with coffee butterscotch glaze. Top with toasted coconut. Cut into 2-inch squares.

COFFEE BUTTERSCOTCH GLAZE

2 tablespoons instant coffee
2 teaspoons water
1 teaspoon coconut extract
2 tablespoons vegetable shortening
One 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) butterscotch morsels
1/3 cup corn syrup
One 3½-oz. can (1-1/3 cups) coconut, toasted

In small measuring cup, combine the two tablespoons instant coffee, two teaspoons water and one teaspoon coconut extract; set aside. Melt over hot (not boiling) water, the two tablespoons vegetable shortening. Add the one cup butterscotch morsels and third cup corn syrup; stir constantly until morsels melt and mixture is smooth. Stir in coffee mixture.

Makes 35 two-inch squares.

Variation: Substitute one 6-oz. package semi-sweet real chocolate morsels for butterscotch morsels, 1 cup chopped nuts for coconut and vanilla extract for coconut extract.

(Editor's note: A typographical error in last week's recipe for Maple Applesauce Muffins read one tablespoon salt. That should read one teaspoon salt.)

Daly City will be represented by the Dolphins Swim team this weekend in a meet to be held at Woodside High School in Redwood City.

All ages will take part in the competition to be staged on Saturday and Sunday.

MEMBERS of the Pacifica Fifty-Plus Club are getting ready for a one-day trip July 19, and planning ahead for an overnighter Aug. 9.

Next week the tour director, Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan, and other members will go on a day-long junket through Santa Cruz, around Madonna State Park west of Gilroy, Searsville Lake and La Honda.

The outing, via bus, will cost $14.25.

Early next month the plans call for a trip to Nevada and a visit to a new hotel and casino in Carson City. A three-hour launch trip on Lake Tahoe is an optional for members who enjoy fresh air and spectacular scenery.

Reservations are avalable from Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg.

MRS. MARY Crljenko has completed work on her first project as the Foremost-McKesson Task Force, a wine and cheese-tasting party in the French Parlor of the Sheraton Palace Hotel in San Francisco.

The event served a dual purpose for the Task Force. The party was staged to raise funds for the Friends Outside Summer camp program and to introduce Kathy Brown, the new Foremost McKesson/Friends Outside Involvement Corps. Coordinator.

Mrs. Brown will be honored at a luncheon sponsored by Friends Outside to acquaint her with the organization's staff and the volunteers.

DID YOU know that the members of the Daly City Area Chapter 1541 of the American Association of Retired Persons sponsor a thrift shop for the benefit of foster children needing aid for education?

Members take their used clothing, pots and pans, jewelry, bric-a-brac, lamps, knits, shoes, dishes, glassware, records, books, bedding and furniture to The Turnabout shop, 6373 Mission St.

MEMBERS of the Daly City Senior Citizens must make reservations to assure space on one of the two chartered buses making the trip to Santa Cruz for the annual Seniors' Talent Show.

The club officers have arranged for the localites to attend the July 22 performance, according to Mrs. Louise Buttle, publicity chairman.

Court Backs Peninsula in Hospital Suit

An attempt to secure a preliminary injunction by Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City to halt a cardiovascular surgery program at Peninsula Hospital in Burlingame has been quashed.

San Francisco Superior Court Judge Ira Brown dismissed the case against Peninsula and Moffitt Hospital of San Francisco on Thursday.

Mary's Help had wanted the judge to stop the Peninsula program for several reasons, among them that Peninsula allegedly had not gotten proper permission to provide the service.

Mary's Help also claimed that its own open heart surgery program would be harmed by Peninsula's.

Attorneys for Peninsula and Moffitt — a facility operated by the University of California — countered that Mary's Help was mainly concerned about its own fiscal condition.

Peninsula has entered into an agreement with specialists from Moffitt to perform cardiac surgery in Burlingame. The agreement with UC was signed Feb. 7. Mary's Help took the two hospitals to court May 22.

Peninsula Administrator Charles Mason said Friday, "We are very pleased that the judge ruled as we thought he would."

He added, "It is unfortunate that two sister hospitals are embroiled in this kind of legal battle." He termed the court confrontation a "very expensive exercise."

Neither of Mary's Help's two top administrators, Rex Chase or Ron Marshall, was available for comment Friday. In the past, however, it has been speculated that Mary's Help may yet sue Peninsula to try to stop Peninsula's cardiovascular program. But that could not be confirmed .

Humane Society Classes

The Peninsula Humane Society has scheduled its second session of free volunteer training classes to begin Aug. 9 from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in the Society's Humane Education Room at 12 Airport Blvd., San Mateo.

Classes will meet at the same time and place Aug. 16 and 23. Volunteers must attend all three classes to complete the training course. The instructor for the course will be the Society's humane education coordinator, Kim Sturla.

This course will provide those interested in the welfare of animals, the opportunity to join the Peninsula Humane Society's active volunteer force, as well as the chance to learn detailed information about domestic animals, wildlife, preventive medicine and first aid for animals, humane education, and humane society programs.

Who Knows What the Giants Will Do Next?

That recent shabby series the Giants played in Atlanta didn't do much for the Giants but proved once again what a wonderous game baseball is, because possibly more than any other sport it is so unpredictable.

What kind of odds could one have gotten from his neighborhood bookie on the Braves taking three of the four-game series; and especially the way they took it?

HERE YOU had the best pitching team in baseball (the Giants), the league leaders, the second winningest team in the game (behind Boston) playing the weakest-hitting and least-productive team in the game (vying neck-and-neck with Oakland for the over-all "honors"), and in last place in the Western Division, with, obviously, one of the worst records in baseball.

Because the Giants have an adequate hitting team for the pitching they have — although they had possibly produced fewer "laughers" than any team in the league — you figure them to take three of four, probably all relatively low-scoring games.

So the Giants score 36 runs, hit 10 homers — and lose three of four. Willie McCovey hits his 500th and 501st homers; Jack Clark, even though he doesn't start one of the games, hits five homers in the series and takes over the league RBI race; the Giants tie their own all-time record for most pinch-hit grand-slams in a season, and Mike Ivie ties the all-time record for most pinch grand-slams in a season for an individual, (Ivie's and Clark's pinch slams were a record for most pinch-slams in a series, in a week, in a . . . .; and heck, even Johnny Lemaster, who counts it a personal triumph when he pushes the ball out of the infield on a fly, hits his first home run of the year.

YOU WANT more? The Giants outscored the Braves 36-33. They walked a bundle despite the fact that the Giants staff had walked fewer batters than any team in baseball. They even managed to blast an old nemesis, Phil Niekro, and still couldn't beat him.

One of the Giants' problems seemed to be that their pitchers couldn't withstand the terrible heat and humidity of Atlanta. Cincy boss Sparky Anderson had just about a week before predicted that Giants' pitching would collapse when they ran into hot weather.

But I can't buy that as a reason for collapse, and I use Sparky's own reasoning in coming to that conclusion.

IF IT is true that pitchers collapse in hot weather, then the Giants' pitching staff is the most fortunate in baseball because it will be pitching in cool weather for more games than any other staff in the game.

A couple of old pitchers' myths seemed to collapse in the Atlanta series. Pitchers always are claiming that they'll "get loose" and peak in hot weather. And Giants pitchers in particular (the second-line hurlers) were complaining that they weren't getting enough work.

Now they claim they're overworked. The manager who can find the happy balance that will satisfy pitchers (it's never been done) should be certified a genuine genius.

IF BASEBALL players, particularly pitchers, would train like fighters, heat and humidity and extra-inning games and ridiculous scheduling never would bother them physically. The same day Giant pitching collapsed in the heat and humidity of Atlanta, WBA featherweight champion Eusebio Pedroza knocked challenger Ernesto Herrera out in the 12th round of a bout in Panama that took place in 90-degree, 85 humidity weather.

Even though thoroughly beaten, Herrera finished on his feet in a fight in which the action was often furious, particularly on the part of Pedroza. They not only moved almost continuously, they were being punched.

Bob Knepper, just turned 22, a 6-3, 195-pound stud, collapsed into the arms of his catcher, Mark Hill, after working nine innings of the third game of the Atlanta series. His rests between innings were longer than the one minute between rounds that fighters get. And Knepper wasn't punched once.

AS THIS is written, Jack Clark is the only National League player in the top 10 of the three major offensive categories — batting, home runs and runs driven in. Actually, he's also in the top 10 in runs scored and hits, and is near the top in triples, doubles, total bases and slugging average.

It's about time that we get this thing about the Cruzes straightened out, since we now have one of them. There are currently seven Cruzes listed on major league rosters or shipped to the minors just this season. They include Tommy Cruz (outfielder formerly with St. Louis and the White Sox, now with Tacoma, a Yankee farm);

Le Pacini

Henry (outfielder with the White Sox); Jose (Houston outfielder); Julio (Seattle second baseman); Todd (Phillies minor league shortstop) and Victor (Toronto pitcher).

Hector "Heity" Cruz, of course, is with the Giants. Tommy and Jose are his brothers, and the Cruz kids join some distinguished families which have sent three boys to the major leagues: The Dimaggios, Alous (all of the latter two groups associated with San Francisco), Boyers and Delahantys. Jose, 30, is the oldest, followed by Tommy, 27, and Heity, the baby, at 25.

ACTUALLY, there is another trio of brothers which has played in the majors, and it's contemporary, too, but obscure because two of the boys, who are twins, thus far have had just the proverbial cups of coffee. They are the Doyle brothers, Denny, Blake and Brian.

Denny, the older brother at 34, passed out of the majors just this season, after an eight-year career with Philadelphia, California and Boston. Blake has had that cup of coffee with Baltimore, and Brian has been up a couple of times this season with the Yankees. The twins are 24.

Some coincidences about the Doyle brothers. They all were born in January, all bat lefthanded, are all second baseman, are listed as 5-foot-10, and weigh about 165 pounds.

TO THE best of my knowledge, the Doyles are only the second set of twins in major league history. The other set was the O'Brien twins, Eddie and Johnny, who had been better known as basketball stars at Seattle U. They signed with Pittsburgh in 1953 as a double-play combination, Eddie at short, Johnny at second, but never really clicked.

Eddie played his entire five-year career with the Pirates, the last two of which were as a pitcher for a few games after being brought back up from the minors, where he had been shipped to learn the trade. He finished with a .236 lifetime BA and had a 1-0 record with a 3.31 ERA as a pitcher.

Johnny lasted for six years, the last two with St. Louis (for part of a season) and Milwaukee when it was an NL team. He, too, dabbled in pitching, compiling a 1-3, 5.61 record to go along with a .250 career BA.

SORRY, but I can't feel sorry for bleating Ray Kroc when he rips one of his personal millionaires, Gene Tenace, for not performing commensurate with the money he gets. Anybody who is fool enough to put out all that money for a .244 lifetime hitter with defensive weaknesses deserves every shaft he gets, wherever he gets them.

BASEBALL TRIVIA OF THE WEEK: Who gave up Hank Aaron's last home run, and who was the American League MVP the year Babe Ruth hit 60 home runs?

Answers: Dick Drago and Lou Gehrig.

DiMaggio Baseball

Millbrae Grabs Lead

By JOHN MURPHY

The weather in the Bay Area is starting to heat up, and so is the baseball pennant race in the Peninsula Joe DiMaggio League.

Millbrae's doubleheader sweep of San Bruno Sunday, combined with Lou & Dave's surprising sweep over South San Francisco, has moved Tony Santora's Millbrae club into sole possession of the top spot.

Meanwhile, Eureka Federal Savings, which swept Flying Goose, has moved into third place (a half game behind South City) with a 5-4 record.

Pitching was the order of the day for Lou & Dave's and EPS, while Millbrae got by with its hitting and the aid of some sloppy San Bruno fielding.

Millbrae (6-3) scored two in the second and one in the third with the help of two botched double play attempts by San Bruno in the opener at Mills High.

Millbrae added an earned run in the fourth (its only one of the game) but fell behind 5-4 when San Bruno came up with three runs in the fifth.

However, lefthander Matt Giampaoli, who relieved starter Dan Dobbins in the top of the inning, sparked a two-run fifth inning rally with an RBI double and Millbrae prevailed 7-6.

In the nightcap Millbrae blew the San Brunans out with an 11-hit attack on the way to a 9-2 decision, San Bruno also helped dig its own grave in this one by committing three errors.

Lefthander Dave Paulus, who will be a senior next year at Mills, allowed only five hits to get the win for Millbrae.

Art Reyes and Dave Bancroft limited South City to just four hits in each game as Lou & Dave's edged SSF 2-1 and 1-0 at Terra Nova High.

Reyes, who saw limited action on the mound this past spring at Half Moon Bay High, displayed the control that wasn't there during the school year in the first game as he struck out seven and walked none.

Mel Graham bailed the Pacificans out of a big jam in the top of the seventh as he fanned SSF's catcher with the bases loaded to preserve the win.

In the second game Bancroft aided his own cause in the second inning by tripling ahead of Reyes' RBI double. That was all the Terra Nova grad needed against the usually hard-hitting Jolters.

"We got a little pitching today," understated Lou — Dave's coach Manny LaCosta. "Reyes has been coming along good. Each outing he gets better and better."

A couple of other pitchers who are getting better and bettert with each successive contest are EFS' Brian Silvas and Frank Regello.

Silvas, a San Mateo High grad, beat Flying Goose 6-2 in the opener at Marchbank Park while Regello, only a 16-year-old, went the distance in EPS' 12-2 victory in the nightcap.

"Regello and Silvas are almost unbeatable right now," said first-year coach John Goulding. "We've been swinging the bat better too. We're starting to play the way we were capable of all along."

EFS dropped its first three games this season to San Bruno, but has caught fire lately. The San Mateo team recently captured the 4th of July Joe DiMaggio League tournament in Benecia.

Flying Goose committed three errors in EFS' four-run fifth inning to hand the opener to the San Mateans.

Goose also made things easy for its opportunitistic opponents by committing 11 miscues in the second game. Each team had nine hits.

Third baseman Ray Greene had four of those hits for EFS. Donn Gunther added three hits and six RBI's.

SSF will travel to Millbrae for a big showdown Wednesday night at 5:45 p.m. at Mills. Those same two teams will also meet in a doubleheader at SSF's Orange Park on Sunday. Other DiMaggio matchups this week include Lou & Dave's vs. EFS and Flying Goose-San Bruno.

Palmetto: Beautifully Tough

Golf Explorer

By HAL GEVERTZ

There's a legendary, unspoiled and wonderful island in South Carolina called Hilton Head. The island was sighted first in the 1500's by Spanish explorers Cordillo and De Quexos, French and Spanish forces which fought in this area late in that century. Hilton Head derives its name from an English sea captain, William Hilton, who in 1663 discovered a land he described as the "goodliest, best and fruitfullest isle ever was seen." In the early 1700's, the English established a plantation culture based in turn on indigo, rice and cotton. This period reached its peak in the 1850's.

Today, this one-time area of desolate coastal marshlands, set among ghostly plantations, plays host to other cultures, predominately golf and tennis. You will find on this 12-mile long and five-mile wide, boot-shaped island and wildlife sanctuary over 100 tennis courts and 11 scenic and challenging golf courses.

ONE OF these is called the George Fazio, Palmetto Dunes Golf Course; located across the highway from the beautiful ocean-front Hyatt Hotel. An outstanding 5,000-square-foot pro shop and the Robert Trent Jones Palmetto Dunes course also are situated there. The 18-hole Jones layout begins in a forest, breaks out on a series of lagoons, past undulating dunesland and finishes back among the trees.

The George Fazio-designed spread is one of the newest classic courses to make one of America's top 100 ratings and I can see why. The distinction of this stylish course is the way its problems are blended so well with the use of water, sand and trees. Each hole is memorable and features a variety of shot-making and stimulating situations. You will not see the common square cut tees at Palmetto Dunes, as they sweep in elegant curves while others are circular and are laid one after another like giant stepping stones.

Oak, palm, palmetto and dense tropical foliage guard the confines of the course and ample out-of-bounds signs are posted to avoid lost time in looking for hard to find golf balls and maybe finding some unfriendly reptiles. Placid man-made lagoons cut their way across 3, 7, 11 and 17, and if you watch carefully you might spot an alligator basking in the sun.

THIS championship course of 6,873 yards with a respected course rating of 74.2 journeys along level Bermuda grass fairways and at times by resort villas nestled in discreet cluster blending into the landscape of the course. The challenge of Palmetto Dunes is not the length of each hole but how you master your positional driving.

The 389-yard 5th and 386-yard 14th are excellent illustrations of holes where you must place accurate tee shots in a position to find clearance for your second shot. There are two elbow-tight dogleg lefts with unforgiving tree coverage at their corners which prevent shortcuts to the greens. The 414-yard par four 7th is another hole where a bad drive is penalized severely as a lagoon separates the fairway from the green. The alternative is to play it up short to find the green in three strokes or maybe play water golf in two.

Some fine pair threes are found on this isle course, but nothing compares with the 230-yard par three 17th. This aqueous masterpiece is one hole you have to line yourself up properly or end up hitting your tee shot down Palmetto Lagoon. A large sloping greenside frontal trap by the water will help your ball from getting wet but not from finding easy par figures.

AT TIMES I thought I was playing a sand golf course. The 394-yard par four 11th and the 425-yard par four 16th looked like the Sahara Desert, with flat traps of leviathan sizes covering all segments of the fairways. But nothing compares with the raised cactus-shaped sand oasis that imposed itself 150 to 200 yards from the 18th tee. This 462-yard par four contains a slight land rise from the driving area, affording one a blind shot to an elevated green that also contains a battery of greenside bunkers.

The large, firm and highly-undulating greens at Palmetto Dunes are designed as an extension of the closely-confined fairways. They offered little in the way of grass coverage — causing unusually fast putting surfaces for Bermuda grass greens. At times my putts were sliding up and over surfaces, reminding me of a ship in rough weather.

One of the finest teachers of the art of golf, Bob Toski, has his headquarters here, where a superb driving range and putting facilities will make lessons more enjoyable.

THE Northern California Golf association will be breaking ground in a couple years on its own championship golf course on the Del Monte Properties near the Spyglass golf course. I was pleased to hear that George Fazio is going to be the architect for the course. If he designs it with some of the outstanding features incorporated into Hilton Head's Palmetto Dunes course, I know for sure that it never will have to worry about looking for players.

Acting Pacifica Manager

The Pacifica City Council officially fired City Manager Don Weidner, effective July 5, and appointed Albert St. Cyr acting city manager.

St. Cyr, 45, is the director of community development and services.

Weidner was fired Monday, but will remain on the city payroll for the next 30 days, during which time he will be asked to serve as a consultant to the city, according to City Attorney Robert Lanzone.

Asked Wednesday why he was fired, Weidner replied that there were "clear philosophical differences" between him and the council.

He would not comment further.

Councilman Mark Savage has said Weidner was fired because of a personality clash between the city manager and Mayor Nick Gust.

Gust responded Wednesday that Savage's interpretation of the firing was incorrect.

"If there was a personality clash, it would have come out years ago," Gust said.

A reliable City Hall source said following the firing Monday that Weidner was let go because he preferred to hire a new police chief from within the Pacifica Police Department rather than going outside the department.

Gust responded "That had nothing to do with it."

He would not, however, say why he voted to fire Weidner, calling it a "personnel" matter.

Weidner, 42, had been Pacifica's city manager since 1974. Reports from City Hall are that he cleared out his desk Wednesday.

St. Cyr, has worked for the city since November 1977. He is to be acting city manager for 60 days.

Appointments to vacant positions, St. Cyr said, will be a frozen until a new city manager is hired.

St. Cyr was the city manager of Sausalito for several years and an assistant city manager in Mountain View.

Nervous Holdup Man Successful

A nervous man with a shotgun held up the bar at the New Southern Restaurant, 975 El Camino Real, at about 11:15 p.m. Wednesday, escaping with an undetermined amount of money, according to South San Francisco police.

The man, described as 6 feet tall, 170 to 180 pounds, in his mid-20s, with shoulder-length brown hair and a long, droopy mustache, walked into the bar and produced the shotgun from under his coat, ordering the bartender to hand over all the money, police said they were told.

The bartender handed over the money, the man fled on foot and wasn't seen again, the police said.

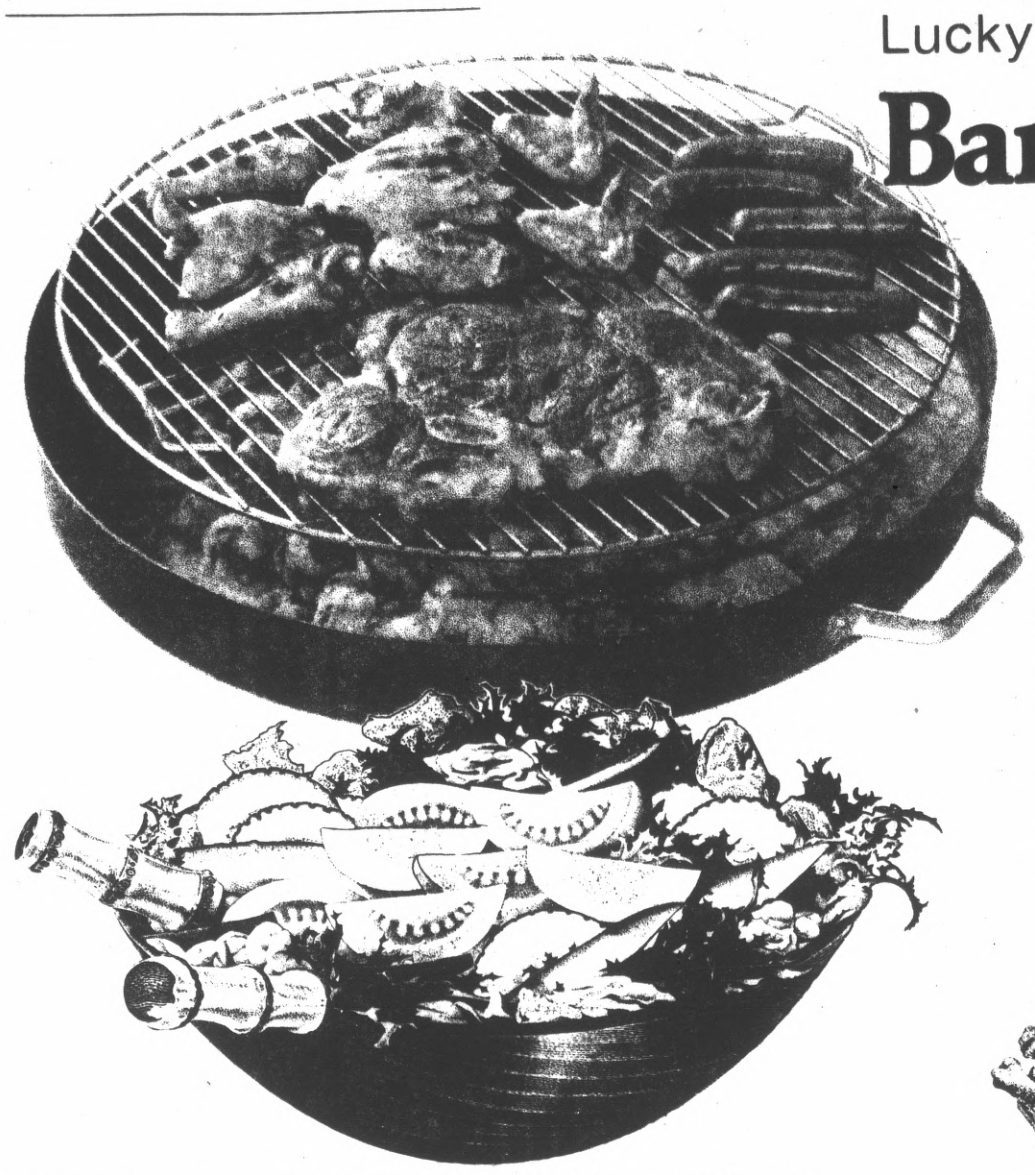
Barbecue Suggestions



What to barbecue:

Virtually any meat can be barbecued, although most people prefer steaks, hamburgers, chicken, hotdogs, and chops. Slower methods of cooking (smoke ovens and rotisseries) handle turkey and roasts nicely. No matter what one barbecues, it's enjoying delicious food and warm companionship in the outdoors.

Don't hurry:

A successful barbecue depends upon a good fire . . . and above all, don't do it in a hurry. The fire is ready when coals are covered with white ash and glowing in the center. The coals should be spread for even heat just before cooking.

Don't overcook:

It's a good idea not to place the grille too close to the coals . . . this makes meat less tender and juicy. Normally, steaks and burgers will cook within a few minutes. Checking with a knife by making a small cut with allow the cook to determine the "doneness" of the meat.

How about marinades?

For a flavor variety, steaks, burgers and kabobs can be brushed with sauce or marinade during the cooking time if desired. Special flavors, such as teriyaki, can be added by marinating the meat before cooking, or brushed on during the cooking process. Barbecue sauce normally contains sugar, and will burn easily. It's a good idea to be brushed on during latter time of cooking period.

Rely on Lucky Meats:

A visit to the meat counter of your Lucky Store will give you all sorts of suggestions for barbecues! You'll find a superb assortment of steaks, ground beef and chicken. So whether you decide to have a backyard barbecue, a picnic in the park, or a cookout at a campsite . . . plan the menu around meat from Lucky . . . and always available at low everyday discount prices!

Quiche Lorraine

Corn Lorraine and Tuna Quiche owe their inspiration to the Alsatian specialty, a cheese and bacon custard pie. This classic Quiche Lorraine or either of the following versions can be served as the main course for brunch or an informal supper, or as the first course of a special dinner.

1 9-inch unbaked pastry shell
8 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled
1½ cups grated Swiss cheese
3 eggs, beaten
1 cup half and half
¼ cup milk
¼ tsp. dry mustard
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
Dash cayenne
1½ Tbsp. margarine or butter

Prick sides and bottom of pastry shell. bake at 450° F., 5 to 10 minutes. Sprinkle bacon and 1 cup cheese in pastry shell. Blend eggs with half and half, milk, mustard, salt, pepper and cayenne. Pour over bacon and cheese. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Dot with margarine. Bake at 375° F. 30 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes before cutting. 6 to 8 servings

San Bruno City Pool Prices Rise

Admission rates and lesson charges at the pool in the San Bruno City Park were increased by the city's Parks and Recreation Commission.

Effective July 10, admission rates for children will be increased from 25 cents to 40 cents for residents, and from 50 cents to $1 for non-residents. Admission rates for adults will be increased from 50 cents to $1 for residents, and from $1 to $2 for non-residents.

Swimming lesson fees also were raised. The cost for 10 half-hour lessons for children now will be $4, up from $2.50; for adults, the charge for 10 one-hour lessons will be $10, up from $5.
